DIARY NOTES

Executive Director-Comptroller

3 September 1965

1. I talked with Bob Bannerman about several items.

a. Bob told me that the Office of Training had jumped the gun and had already published in their Training Bulletin that the Voluntary Language Training Program was eliminated. I told him to have them withdraw this item and said that I thought they used extremely poor judgment to make such an announcement without the Director's approval. They know that this has been a subject which has been of great interest to all the Directors, and I assume the present one will be no exception.

b. Bob presented a proposal to modify the recruitment brochure for the fall campaign since the new brochure will not be available until the first of the year. I approved of his general scheme to replace the cover and remove Mr. McCone's picture, President Kennedy's statements, etc.

5. I talked to Don Smith of the Bureau of the Budget on three different subjects.

a. Concerning NPIC, the draft letter which [redacted] was about to sign with regard to the joint CIA-DOD examination of photo interpretation facilities will exclude departmental facilities. I told Don that in my judgment this would not produce very much if the Department of Defense could decide for itself what was departmental and what was national. I therefore felt that it would be better if CIA and DOD together looked at all the facilities and made this judgment rather than leave to the individual services the decision of what they would call departmental or national. He agreed and said that he would make this point to [redacted] when he saw him at 1600 hours today.

c. We philosophized about the President's planning, programming, and budgeting scheme; in particular, how we should set up this program in the Agency; and more specifically, what should be the relationship between a planning staff and BPAM. Although Don was not completely clear on this subject, I gathered that he felt it might not be a mistake to make them a part of the same organization. If they are not, then there must be some way to tie them very closely
